2. On 16 June, 13 shrapnelproof aircraft revetments were completed west of the AA gun emplacement in the southeastern corner of the field and an additional shrapnelproof revetment was under construction. Chippings were unloaded from 22 railroad cars on the spur track, raised along the embankment, and then trucked to the revetments.
3. On 17 June, a barrier was erected by the Soviets north of the gap in the fence. This barrier was closed when aircraft approached for landing.
